what are the clinics?

as well as the quality of our coaches, it's our clinics that set tdc apart from regular ski schools:

- it's like a 'sociable private lesson'
- group size never more than six
- progress at your own rate + level
- the best value for money ski coaching available clinics run for either two or three half-days, so you can guarantee great improvements without taking up all of your holiday

“the small print”: All sessions must be paid for before they start. We cannot give a refund if people do not turn up for their session. We cannot be held responsible for lift/piste closure or bad weather, but we can write a letter for your insurance company.

Cancellation: A credit card number is required to confirm a booking. Cancellations can be made up to 7 days prior to the session date. If cancellation is within the 7 days prior to the session, we will try to resell the session. If we can resell then no payment will be taken, if we cannot resell then full payment will be taken from your credit card.

Liability: tdc accepts no liability for clients whilst under the professional instruction of the coach. All coaches are fully internationally qualified independent instructors, all hold the french 'Equivalence', and have private professional liability insurance. Clients must ensure that they have their own insurance, including cover for off-piste if necessary, as in the unlikely event of an accident or illness no refund can be given.
